Profile

I recently began my Phd in cognitive science. I am currently producing a preregistered meta-analysis, participate in a many-analysts EEG project and run an online experiment. I am intensely studying Bayesian statistics and am excited about open science practices. I enjoy analysing data as much as coming up with creative research questions.

I want to research how metabolic and visceral bodily states are cognitively represented, influence cognition and mental well-being. I practice intermittent fasting and yoga myself to gain a subjective understanding of this topic.
